Honoluin people have not forgotten the deep impression made upon them by Dr. John H. De Forest, missionary leader from Japan, when he was here several years ago. He was one of the few Americans decorated by the late Emperor for his many important services to the Empire. At the height of his influence and in the prime of life, Dr. De Forest passed away last year in Sendal, where the Japanese are now erecting a memorial church in his honor; but he left a worthy bequest in the form of his daughter, Miss Charlotte B. De Forest, of Kone Miss Charlotte B. De Forest, of Kone College, one of the most remarkable

College, one of the most remarkable Americans now in Japan.

Miss De Forest is a graduate of Smith College, where she achieved a record that has never been duplicated. Shortly after graduation she went to Kobe and gave herself to the study of the language, in which she has become so proficient that one of her favorite pastimes is the composition of Japanese posms, for which she is becoming widely known. A lady of great literary ability, a leader in the great literary ability, a leader in the educational world in her adopted country, a fine speaker, and possessed of a most charming personality, she is just entering upon a career of the widest influence. Miss De Forenthas been on a furlough in America for the past year and is now returning to the Orient on the Manchuria, which is

TONIGHT!

"If Hawaii wants to get into the big winter tourist trade such as Los Angeles has, we must insist upon and get good roads and pienty of them," says Mr. P. C. Janes. Mr. Jones has returned from a trip to the mainland, extending as far east as flucton, and on his way home visited Los Angeles has a marvellous system of roads in and around the city, and that this is one of the big factors in its tramendous and profitable tourist traffic.

"I understand there are some 310 miles of roads in and close around the city," he taid today, "and it certainly is a pleasure to drive over them in an automobile. The road surface, I believe, is oiled macadam, and it is kept in faultless repair.

"California is to spend some $18,000,000 as the share of that State in a great highway ruaning north and south and extending from Seattle, Waushington, down through. Oregon and California to the nonthern houndary. I do not know of any factor more important in getting tenrents here and getting them to stay for a while than good roads.

"I notice that Link McCanaltees is advocating cuiting down the county payroll. While I believe in economy. I feel that this city can well afford to maintain a gang of men whose business it would be to repair roads the moment any note began to appear. In Los Angeles, the holes are filled and emoothed over and the roads are kep from deterioration. Here many of on for single pay. The county work much exceeds the Verritorial anyway.

Lust night the committee in charge of the accounts for election expenses made a report in which the pay of irrpectors was left out. The omission was not mentioned, let alone explained to the board. Had it been, Deputy Clerk Buffandeau could have put the supervisors right on the subject. After the meeting, the correct position of the matter was shown to Mr. McCluttan who said it would be righted at the maker was also to are larged as the next meeting.

While the entire county expenses including pay of inspectors, is but 51500, the momination fees of candidates amount to kilon, so that the net count to the municipality is only kilon. The force county government was instituted, the work of the inspectors was instituted, the work of the inspectors was instituted, the work of the inspectors was comparatively light. Except in unusually large precinets, the count would be completed at an early home of the evening. With the county ballots added, the count in many cases takes nearly if not the whole night.
